Overview

Sophia Rolle-Kapousouzoglou is a partner in our commercial litigation department. She appears regularly as lead counsel before the Bahamian Supreme Court and Court of Appeal.

Sophia continues to receive growing recognition for her reputation in the field of insolvency litigation. Chambers Global 2021 comment 'Sophia continues to enhance her already impressive disputes reputation. Sources describe her as "excellent," "practical," and "meticulous." She is well versed in handling disputes relating to securities fraud, asset tracing and insolvency'. She impresses sources with her industrious approach to the work she takes on, with The Legal 500 Caribbean 2020 noting "Sophia Rolle-Kapousouzoglou does an excellent job; she is highly recommended for being extremely professional, efficient and experienced. Working with Sophia is like working with some of the top firms in London."

Sophia represents clients in multi-jurisdictional matters and has acted in several prominent cross-border insolvency cases. She is also experienced in shareholder and company disputes and trust litigation.

Her overall practice areas include advising clients with respect to contractual disputes, property disputes, fraud and asset tracing, Norwich Pharmacal applications, applications for injunctions and other interlocutory relief.

Sophia has been recognised by Chambers Global 2021, The Legal 500 Caribbean 2021, Who's Who Legal: Asset Recovery 2020, Who's Who Legal: Litigation 2020, Global Restructuring Review's '40 Under 40' and was featured in GRR's 'Women in Restructuring' list in 2019.

She is regularly called on to speak at various international conferences, including INSOL, ABA, ABI, and the AIJA, and has contributed to numerous publications with respect to Bahamian law.

 - Florida Bar International Law Section Conference
Miami, Florida - 22 February 2019
Panelist on Alter Ego and Veil Piercing in the U.S. and Abroad
The district court in Delaware recently found that a state-owned enterprise was the sovereign state's alter ego and allowed creditors of the sovereign state to reach the assets of its instrumentality. This is an important development for lawyers that help their clients recover value from defendants that attempt to hide or secrete their assets behind complex corporate structures. This panel will explore recent developments relating to alter ego and veil piercing theories. Panelists will also discuss whether such theories are available in other jurisdictions, including best practices and obstacles that U.S. lawyers should be aware of when litigating these issues abroad.

"Use of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code to Support Investigations of Corporate Fraud (Business Law) Foreign creditors", especially banks and financial institutions, can benefit from proceedings under Chapter 15 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code, which provides an "exclusive door" to the U.S. court system for the foreign representative of a non-U.S. bankruptcy estate. In situations where a non-U.S. insolvency involves or has been caused by fraud, including by a corporation's senior management or by its controlling shareholders, bankruptcy judges in the U.S. have given trustees fairly wide discretion to conduct discovery and seek assets in the U.S. They have done so in some instances by recognizing the validity of non-U.S. veil piercing orders, which can extend corporate liability to third parties when the estate can demonstrate an intent to defraud creditors. This presentation explained how Chapter 15 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code can be a powerful tool in the investigation of fraud, and gives trustees and creditors the authority to obtain critical evidence for use in non-U.S. proceedings, claw back misappropriated funds, and secure assets for distribution to corporate stakeholders left holding the bag after corporate fraud that results in insolvency.
- INSOL Quadrennial Congress Offshore Day
 Sydney, Australia - 19 March 2017
"Universalism is dead" – a debate: Progress towards a "universalist" approach to dealing with cross-border insolvency has suffered some notable setbacks in the last 2 years. However, the need to be able to have effective and efficient mechanisms for dealing with cross-border structures has arguably never been higher. There is increasing regulatory, governmental and academic interest in the area, with work taking place on model laws for cross-border groups at the same time as the existing laws designed to promote universalism are under review or revision. Is universalism dead, or the model for the future? A review of the current position was followed by a lively debate between those for and against the concept.
